What Success Looks Like: Florida-Style

July 6, 2016: The Urban Green Council named the University of Florida's J. Wayne Reitz Union winner of its annual EBie Award in the "Power to the People: Exceptional Energy Savings" category. The award recognizes the efforts and achievements of UF and Trane for its completed GESPC at the Reitz Union. The project was designed to modernize and upgrade the building infrastructure, add capacity to existing building mechanical systems and achieve positive energy conservation results. Each year, the EBie (named for the best work on Existing Buildings) Awards showcase the impactful and innovative work that's being done
